

Before First Practice

We have multiple teams in our program, so we combine an informational meeting for the parents with an introductory group practice where all teams meet together before the first official team practice begins.

We will put the parents in one room and briefly describe what the expectations are and what their youth will be doing, and in the other room we will show the Robot Game Video from FIRST™ and the Research Project Video from FIRST™. Then, we divide all youth into groups of 2-3 and give them instructions to start building the missions.

It is important to print the mission instructions in color. This is a lot of color printing, but it is worth it because several of the missions are very complicated to build.

If you don't print the instructions, you can get them from the FIRST™ website.
