School will be out—summer is around the corner! Many families are planning reunions with family members and making plans to get together! Families always need opportunities for new ideas to create lasting memories with their loved ones. Listed below are nine fun family history activities to try at your next family reunion to get people talking, sharing and having fun.

Memory T-Shirts: If you have more than one branch of an extended family attending your reunion, consider identifying each branch with a different colored shirt.

Photo Swap: Invite attendees to bring their old, historic family photos to the reunion, including pictures of people (great-grandpa), places (churches, cemeteries, the old homestead) and even previous reunions.

Family Tree Wall Chart: Create a large family tree chart to display on a wall, including as many generations of the family as possible. Family members can use it to fill in the blanks and correct any inaccurate information.

Story Time: A rare opportunity to hear interesting and funny stories about your family, a storytelling hour can really encourage family memories.

Oral History Odyssey: Locate someone with a video camera who is willing to interview different members about the family.

Family History Skits and Re-enactments: Using stories from your own family history, have groups of attendees develop skits or plays that will retell the tales at your family reunion.

Family Scavenger Hunt: What was great-grandfather Powell's first name? Which Aunt had twins? Where and when were Grandma and Grandpa Bishop married? Is there someone born in the same state as you? Set a deadline and then gather the family together to judge the results.

Heritage Cookbook: Invite attendees to submit their favorite family recipes—it can be from their own family or one passed down from a distant ancestor.

Memorabilia Table: Set up a table for attendees to bring and display their treasured family memorabilia. These items could include historic photos, military medals, old jewelry, family bibles, etc. You want to make sure that all items are carefully labeled and the table is always hosted.

L o v e   Y o u r   B r a i n !

Alzheimer's robs people of their ability to remember. Here are just a few ways to help your brain stay healthy against Alzheimer's:

- 1) Break a sweat: engaging in regular cardiovascular activity elevates your heart rate and increases blood flow to the brain.
- 2) Hit the books: formal education at anytime in life will help reduce cognitive decline.
- 3) Fuel Up Right: eat a healthy and balanced diet, lower in fat and higher in vegetables and fruits. These foods may reduce the risk of cognitive delay.
- 4) Heads Up!: Brain injury can raise your risk of cognitive decline and dementia. Wear your seat belt, use a helmet while riding a bike or playing contact sports and take steps to prevent falling.

You and your family can start now—it is never too late to gain healthy habits.

Keep the Family Picnics Safe at the Plate

Warm weather is here and there's no better place to be than outside! Have you thought of having a picnic with your family? Whether indoors or out, a picnic can be a great way to spend time with your kids and spouse.

You want to make sure and keep family picnics safe at the plate. Ways to accomplish this would be:

Bring water and soap to wash hands, surfaces and cutting boards.

Bring a food thermometer. Use it if grilling to make sure your meat is the correct temperature (internal temperature for burgers 160 degrees and chicken—165 degrees).

Store chilled foods in a cooler with ice or ice packs.

Store uncooked meat, poultry, or fish for grilling in a well-sealed container. Pack in the bottom of the cooler so juices will not leak onto other foods.

Keep coolers in the car as you drive, not a hot trunk. At the picnic, keep them in the shade under a tree or bench.

Return chilled foods to the cooler right after serving.

Discard leftover meat, chicken, fish, eggs and foods made with them if left out for one hour in temperatures over 90 degrees.
