4-H ACTIVITIES, COMPE- TITIONS, PRACTICES STILL ON HOLD

Please be sure that you are following the Texas 4-H Program directive to not have any 4-H activities, competitions or practices until after May 4. Individual or online activities are definitely encouraged during this time to keep your projects going. Please remember this is for the safety of everyone. The sooner everything can become contained, the sooner we can get back to normal. I will keep you posted with a weekly correspondence to let you know what is going on.

As of today, the Extension Office is closed, however if you need anything, please email me, as I will be working from home.

I've also attached the latest information available about how upcoming District 4-H Contests and State qualifications will be handled. Please be patient and understand that information may still be changing.

Virtual Learning Opportunities Through 4-H

Hopefully each of you have seen and read the weekly installments of Texas 4-H Today. They have various online learning activities listed to help keep your 4-H'ers busy and learning during this interesting time that we are all facing. Please email me if you have any questions.

Clothing Project Opportunities— Making Facemasks

There have been many great stories about the different groups that are making facemasks for our healthcare providers. If you are participating in this activity, please be sure to let us know. Audrey Crawford, Texas 4-H Fashion Ambassador will assist in picking up any masks that you have made and delivering them to those in need.

COUNTY 4-H COMPETITIONS
At this time, I do not have any exact plans—however I don't want to leave our Junior and Intermediate participants out! I hope to still be able to have some experiences for them during the summer!

The above chart was provided by Wendy Scott, District 4-H Specialist.

For State 4-H Roundup Contests, we have received information that most of the contests will be available as invitational contests, meaning that there will not be a qualification contest at District in order to advance. There will be some contests that will be canceled this year.

There are 3 contests however, that will remain qualifying: Share the Fun, Food Show and Food Challenge. Share the Fun will be held as a qualifying contest, through virtual presentations. For our District, Food Show and Food Challenge have already been determined. Details will be provided to you as they are available.
