

October: Popcorn Popping Month

One of my favorite memories of weekends spent with my grandparents, Romie and Lorene, was her popping popcorn on top of the cook stove. She would sprinkle the perfectly popped corn with salt and drizzle it with just a tad of butter. Then we would settle in for a night of our favorite Saturday night television programs. To this day, I rarely purchase microwave popcorn, but do it on the stove just like my Granny! Now, instead of melted butter on top, I spritz it with zero calorie butter and barely add salt to control the sodium and calories. I supposed that comes along with trying to be more health conscious!

The following article written by Lisa Franzen-Castle, RD, PhD, Nutrition Specialist UNL Panhandle Research & Extension Center recognizes October is Popcorn Popping Month, a good time to check out the following tips to make popcorn fun and healthy.

Popcorn can be a healthy snack, if made with little or no added salt and butter. It's also good for you because it counts as a whole grain. USDA's Choose MyPlate recommends getting at least half of your grains from whole grains. Three cups of popped popcorn equal one serving from the grains group.

Popcorn Popping Tricks & Tips:

Popcorn and nutrition. Popcorn is whole grain, contains fiber, and is naturally low in fat and calories. Air-popped popcorn has only 31 calories per cup; oil-popped popcorn has only 55 calories per cup. When lightly buttered, popcorn contains about 133 calories per cup. Popcorn can be a great snack option between meals because it satisfies and doesn't spoil your appetite. Be sure to check the Nutrition Facts Label when buying pre-packaged popcorn. Do a comparison between different brands and types and pick one with lower fat, sodium, and calories.

Popcorn as snacks. Season plain popcorn with garlic powder, or season the popping oil with spices to create a lightly flavored savory treat. Try combining popcorn with dried fruit and nuts to create your own custom snack mix. Create easy to prepare and tasty popcorn dessert bars; tint liquid mixture for different holidays.

Popcorn popping tips. Not only is popcorn tasty and economical, it's also easy to prepare. Whether you choose to pop popcorn in an electric popper or on the stove, follow these tips from The Popcorn Board (bit.ly/PHURHc):

- First, warm the popper, heavy pan or skillet. If oil popping your corn, add 1/4 cup of cooking oil to the pan. Allow the oil to heat. The best popping temperature is between 400 and 460 degrees Fahrenheit. Oil burns at 500 degrees. If your oil starts to smoke, it's too hot. Any cooking oil will work provided it can retain the proper temperature.
- Don't pop popcorn in butter because it will burn.
- Test the heat of the oil by dropping in one or two kernels. When the kernel pops or spins in the oil, you're ready to add the remaining popcorn. Pour just enough kernels to cover the bottom of the pan. Shake the pan to be certain oil coats each kernel.
- Kernels that don't pop do not have sufficient water contained within the starch to create the build-up of pressure needed to pop the kernels.
