Compared to last week's market; Today's weather related light run showed all weight class averages from 400 lbs and down ended uneven to $4 lower while those class averages over 400 lbs ended fully $2 to $4 stronger.

Slaughter cows were $2 stronger while the slaughter bulls finished $5 higher.

Wet and colder conditions across the grazing and feedlot regions along with unsettled board closings appear to keep buyer aggression at a minimum. The political circus along with the ever growing coronanvirus concerns are also a factor in beef demand the next couple of months.

Calf market showed increase optimism as futures market closed up higher Friday. Many commodity traders feel we may have reached a bottom and future looks bright unless we have something like another virus scare or packing plant disaster.
